

Call for Proposals: TESOL New Ways in Teaching Series

November 2024

TESOL Press is seeking editors for their latest additions to the popular New Ways series:

- New Ways in Teaching Young Learners
- New Ways in Teaching Active Listening

New Ways volumes are collections of effective, fresh, and innovative activities contributed by English language teachers from all over the world, with experience teaching multilingual learners of English of any age and proficiency level and in any context.

Editors should be language educators who are emerging or experienced in their topic areas. Familiarity with the New Ways series is a plus. The underlying structure of the books and the sections should be based on current research and professional experience teaching.

Responsibilities

The editors for the volumes will be responsible for:

- Soliciting appropriate, relevant, and high-quality activities.
- Selecting approximately 100 activities for inclusion in the volume.
- Working with contributors to ensure clarity, accuracy, and freshness.
- Writing an introduction to the book and to individual sections, as well as several activities.

Proposal Guidelines

The proposal must include the following:

- CV
- Cover letter
- An outline of sections in the proposed volume
- One self-authored activity exemplary of the quality you expect to fill the book with

To apply, please submit your proposal using the TESOL Book Proposal form.

Commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Access (DEIA)

TESOL values and seeks diverse and inclusive participation within the field of English language teaching and is committed to upholding antiracist and antidiscrimination policies and practices within the association.

All editors receive compensation and are under contract to TESOL. Expected publication for these titles is 2026.

Deadline for proposals: 16 December 2024
